

I am a flight attendant with Southwest Airlines and I do not think cell phones should be allowed to be used airborne. It would be so noisy in the cabin with everyone on their phone talking above each other. A lot of passengers tell us that it is their quiet time. Time to read, take a nap or just sort out their thoughts. Imagine the noise in the cabin with the babies crying, the kids yelling and people talking on their cell phones. What a lot of noise that would be. I think that a lot of flight attendants would just go crazy with it all and have no authority over the public.
